Our Program - Shubh: Aarambh

We have incorporated this framework and it has been our guiding force to bring sustainable change in our society and in the lives of our children who are the future of our country.

Self - as Parent and Caregiver

Focus on the self awareness, inner self and connection with self is the corner stone. Parents and caregivers consider their roles from connecting to the self

Family - as Nurturer

Focus on family as a ‘unit of change’ for ECCE practices, handholding, love, respect, care within the household during those formative years

Community - as Support

Focus on collective support, peer learning from the lived experiences, parents share their knowledge and experience with others, building a community of caregivers

School - as Safe Space

Focus on learning and facilitation of workshops/ sessions with parents and caregivers practice through dialogical dialogue and different perspectives

MINDFUL PARENTING MODULES

1. Know yourself

Baseline understanding, safe space.

2. Childhood & Beliefs

Understanding of own patterns begins.

3. Pressured Parenting

Insight into stress, first body-based tools.

4. Loving Routines

Routines created at home for bonding and safety.

5. Listening to Understanding

Parents practice empathic listening.

6. Speaking with Heart

When feelings are heard, hearts grow closer.

7. Stories and Play as Tools

Play becomes a parenting tool; improved bonding.

8. Respect Begins at Home

Understanding of equity, dignity, and fairness at home.

9. Peer Circles & Community

Mutual support, reduced isolation.

10. Celebration & Endline

Sense of identity, closure, and ownership of growth.

Knowledge Collaborations

Our meaningful partnerships with various other organisation working in different domains have guided, mentored, and shared resources, with us enabling us to sustain ourselves so far

"We were sharing 'Positive Childhood Experiences' during a workshop, when a parent (Reena ji) shared that she did not remember any pleasant memories of their childhood.

When asked again she came up with a memory which she related to eating sweets and that memory (of taste) still makes her happy!

We synthesized with sensory aspects of ECCE for all the parents on that day. It was a fun filled and sweets session."
